Joining Hands with God

Dr. Jeff Roberts, Senior Pastor
jroberts@tbcraleigh.com • Twitter: @Jeff_Roberts

I am looking forward to our worship in February as we turn our attention toward the family and relationships within families. This year, we have some special topics and worship experiences planned for this emphasis. Here are our topics for each week:

Made In God's Image...

February 1 "Till Death Do us Part: Having a Purposeful Marriage"

February 8 Children's Day at Trinity Baptist Church
(Our Children will lead in All Areas of Worship)

February 15 "The One Flesh Principle: God's Gift of Sexuality"
(Our Children will leave worship during the sermon time for a worship experience designed for them this day)

February 22 "The Wholeness of Singleness"

I am looking forward to each of these days, and discovering what the Bible has to say to inform our thinking regarding these topics. On February 15, I will be leading us in considering a topic, which I have never taught from the pulpit. We will explore the Bible's teaching regarding the purpose of sexual relationship. Although this sermon will not be graphic, it will explore topics which our ministers do not think is appropriate for discussion for our children. For this reason, in both services, our children will worship with us until midway through the service, and then they will exit to the Multipurpose Room for a worship experience, which will be a continuation of the topic of Children's Day on February 8.

The choice to approach this subject from the pulpit has been a long and prayerful consideration for me. However, I have become convinced that our culture has so misused and perverted God's intent for the sexual relationship that it is something the church should not ignore, and we must present a Biblical view of this important

I hope you will plan to be a part of this important month at Trinity and invite others to come and worship with us as we consider these important topics in family life. Let us consider what it means for us and our families to be "Made in God's Image."

This coming Sunday, January 25, we will be considering Jesus' call into the future. Jesus says, "Come Follow Me." I look forward to seeing you and worshipping alongside you this Sunday.

Music Notes

We as a church have been so blessed by gifted accompanists and instrumentalists over the years. I want to take a moment to especially thank our worship accompanists Barbara Bowen, Ramona Green, and Wayne Rogers because they put so much time into selecting appropriate music for worship, but also for accompanying many of our choirs and soloists throughout the year. I am so pleased to work with them and am grateful for their leadership at Trinity. We have the best staff of accompanists one could ever need! To each one of you, thank you!

Testimony of Life

March 29 • Both Morning Services

Plans are coming together for the Sanctuary Choir and Orchestra as we prepare for our worship presentation of a cantata by Joseph Martin, "Testimony of Life." It is a beautifully written collection resembling a lessons and carols service that is presented at Christmas in many churches, and we have added two additional songs to the collection. Combining scripture with beautiful music, the cantata presents a great opportunity to share the gospel of Christ and the redemption for all mankind that only comes through Him.

Words from Carla

A friend of mine shared an article that a pastor's wife/mom with two little boys, 4 & 6 years old wrote on a blog that is on the Huffington Post. This mom has some very encouraging words that I wanted to share with parents about having your children in worship with you. I am very supportive, as well as this church, with the importance of having children participate in worship with their parents. It is a family time and children need to feel they are a part of a larger entity, the church family. If they were never present they would not see parents and other adults engage in worship. This is important in their faith development and I do believe adults too would miss the blessing of having them there. Let us also not forget our commitment to the child and parent at Parent-Child dedication.

Here is an excerpt from Jamie Brueshoff's article:

You are doing something really, really important. I know it's not easy. I see you with your arms overflowing, and I know you came to church already tired. Parenting is tiring. Really tiring. I watch you cringe when your little girl asks an innocent question in a voice that might not be an inside voice, let alone a church whisper. I hear the exasperation in your voice as you beg your child to just sit, to be quiet as you feel everyone's eyes on you. Not everyone is looking, but I know it feels that way. I know you're wondering, is this worth it? Why do I bother? I know you often leave church more exhausted than fulfilled. But what you are doing is so important.

When you are here, the church is filled with a joyful noise. When you are here, the Body of Christ is more fully present. When you are here, we are reminded that this worship thing we do isn't about bible study or personal, quiet contemplation but coming together to worship as a community where all are welcome, where we share in the Word and Sacrament together. When you are here, I have hope that these pews won't be empty in 10 years when your kids are old enough to sit quietly and behave in worship. I know that they are learning how and why we worship now, before it's too late. They are learning that worship is important.

I know how hard it is to do what you're doing, but I want you to know it matters. It matters to the congregation to know that families care about faith, to see young people... and even on those weeks when you can't see the little moments, it matters to your children.

It matters that they learn that worship is what we do as a community of faith, that everyone is welcome, that their worship matters. When we teach children that their worship matters, we teach them that they are enough right here and right now as members of the church community. They don't need to wait until they can believe, pray or worship a certain way to be welcome here, and I know adults who are still looking to be shown that. It matters that children learn that they are an integral part of this church, that their prayers, their songs, and even their badly (or perfectly-timed, depending on who you ask) cries and whines are a joyful noise because it means they are present.

Dare to Discipline

February 8 - March 1
Sundays • 6:00-7:00pm

Room E247 (multipurpose room)

Join me as we talk about discipline with Dr. James Dobson. Learn about how anger can interrupt your intentions of discipline and how being consistent with discipline is important for you and child. Children thrive in situations where they know and understand limits. You'll be equipped with tools to establish a plan for shaping the will of your child without breaking his/her spirit.
