Following Jesus...

Dr. Jeff Roberts, Senior Pastor
jroberts@tbcraleigh.com • Twitter: @Jeff__Roberts

We are now two months into the ingathering and follow-up phase of our Deepen The Ties that Bind Capital Campaign. So many of you made generous pledges and have begun the process of fulfilling those pledges over the next four years. I want to again thank you for all you are doing in preparing us financially for our project. This time can be a quiet time, after so much discussion last fall concerning our project. However, just because it seems quiet does not mean much work is happening. I wanted to bring you up-to-date concerning the work of our Facilities Master Planning Committee (FMPC).

The Trustees made a motion in the January Church Conference to empower the FMPC to reengage our architect and continue our process toward the bidding process for our project. In the next several months, they will be working with our architect to develop the drawings needed for bid, which will give us the true cost of the building and also will recommend to the church who the contractor will be for building the project. Our Capital Campaign goal was based on our best estimate from our architect, as well as research by our committee of soft costs involved in the process. We believe we did a good job in this process, but the final cost will ultimately be known in our current process. After much discussion the committee has chosen to engage a contractor early in the process, alongside the architect, to help with pre-construction engineering to ensure we get the best price for our project. The process of interviewing contractors for this purpose has begun. The FMPC reported this information to our February Church Conference and there was no discussion.

In the months ahead, we can expect our committee to be giving us monthly updates in Church Conference and worship. In addition, we will be reviewing our drawings and keeping the church informed of this progress and seek input along the way.

In addition to the work of the FMPC, our Church Council has begun the conversation regarding the logistics and schedule for our construction process. It is our goal to make sure that once construction begins our programs and ministries are able to continue and thrive. They will be developing a plan for where we will worship during the Sanctuary renovation phase, such as how we will move people through the construction site as well as the multi-use of many of our spaces during the construction process. As we move forward there will be many other committees in the church who will be invited to participate and use their gifts to make our process a success.

My goals for our process are very simple. It is my goal that we go through this process in harmony with one another, we are open to learning what God might be able to show us in the process and we create the space which will enable support of our Core Values of Worship, Fellowship, Discipleship, Missions and Ministry.

During this "quiet time" there is much you can do. Pray for our church. Be faithful in your giving to our campaign and also to our general church budget and attend our monthly Church Conferences, so you will be informed as a Church member. Finally, continually remind yourself of our true purpose of a congregation, which is to share the good news of Jesus Christ and to be a loving congregation to each other and to all who would choose to join us as we "Join Hands With God."

Music Ministry

Rev. Steve Byers, slbyers@tbcraleigh.com

Special thanks to The Bells of Praise for presenting music in both morning services this past Sunday.

Under the leadership of Sylvia Pearce, the bells have truly excelled and joyfully offered praises in worship throughout the year. It was a great day of music, along with the Adult Choir and Firstlight leading us in choral music for worship. Make sure you plan to be with us over the next few weeks as we begin celebrating Lent with some dramatic monologues as a part of our worship.

Adult Choir, please secure the make-up Rehearsal scheduled for March 15, 9:00 - 12 Noon at TBC.

This is another opportunity for us to catch-up after several missed rehearsals due to inclement weather. After a great rehearsal this past Friday night, let's all plan on making this a priority in our scheduling so that we will be prepared for April 13!

Mark your calendars for the Easter cantata on April 13.

This year, the cantata, "The Majesty and Glory of the Resurrection," will be presented with orchestra in both morning worship services. Please pray for our choir and orchestra as they prepare for this important day in the church year. You will hear many of the familiar songs of Easter that we have all grown up with over the years. Many hymns are woven into medleys that remind us of the passion and the sacrifice our Lord made on our behalf of each one of us. You will not want to miss this year's presentation, and it is a great way to invite others to experience worship and fellowship at Trinity.

We need you! Do you have interests or gifts in videography?

I have presented to you a great need we have in our music and worship ministry over the past few weeks. We are in need of more people to join our Video Team. Every Sunday, a small team of folks provides this fantastic opportunity for people outside of the church to watch our worship service through Internet streaming via our church website. Without these people in place, we may not reach others who cannot come to worship or those who are watching our church to find out more about it. Our team needs new people to train and begin the journey. If you have gifts that can be utilized or interests in training for something new, please consider this important ministry of our church. Call me for more details.

Words from Andy

I recently read a great blog post by Dr. Kara Powell of Youth Fuller Institute. It speaks about our students at TBC and how we as parents and adults can help them.

Know a stressed teenager? Me too. Lots of them. Evidence is mounting that this generation of young people experiences more stress than any previous generation. Not only that, but teenage stress is starting to reach adult levels.

According to a recent survey of 1000 young people ages 13-17 conducted by the American Psychological Association, more than 27% report feeling “extreme stress” in the last year, a number that exceeds adults’ self-reported stress levels.

Here’s a more nuanced look at the stress young people report:

Unsurprising to anyone who’s spent time with a teenager recently, the effort required to manage time and balance activities is a “somewhat” or “very significant” stressor to 59% of the young people surveyed. Stress is affecting young people physically. Over 32% of respondents say they experience headaches because of stress. Unfortunately, only about 37% of the teenagers surveyed exercise or walk to manage stress. More common are less healthy activities, such as playing video games (46%) and spending time online (43%).

What can you do to help a stressed teenager?

- Beware of what your own stress is communicating. Whether you are a leader or a parent (or both), kids pick up on our stress, and it can increase their own.
- Ask them how they are feeling about their schedule and pace. This is a question I regularly ask my 13 year-old son to understand the demands on his time and focus, and navigate potential overloads.
- If you’re a parent, talk with your family about specific ways your home can be less stressful. Maybe it means getting more prepared for school the night before, or putting on mellow music right before dinner or bedtime, or creating a weekly schedule that’s in your kitchen so everyone knows what each day holds.

- Help them say “no.” Kids are even worse at saying “no” than adults because they don’t want to miss out. Help them say “no” to activities and invitations that are good but not great.

I’m scared about the stress trajectory for both our young people and our culture. I want to do something about it.

Words from Carla

Lent is a journey both spiritually and in the physical world. We can share with our families in the preparation of the season. It is a wonderful time to begin to plant flowers, take a walk, and enjoy the season that God has given us. Easter is a time of rebirth and renewal. As you begin to reflect on your rebirth in Christ (the most important decision in your life) and the sacrifice that Christ made, be careful on how you share that with your preschooler. Preschoolers can understand that Jesus loves them and He is their friend. The first and foremost thing young preschoolers learn about God is that He loves them. They understand love not by mere words, but by actions. When words like God, Jesus, and Bible are used early and frequently with a young preschooler, and when they are associated with loving and engaging activities, the words are bound forever into the preschooler's ears and mind. Let them hear and see Christ's love in you!

Volunteers Needed

If you would be interested in helping with the Preschool Easter Egg Event or VBS please contact me at 919-787-3740 or cbabb@tbcraleigh.com.

Lent Resources

As we approach our Lenten season, there are small calendars located in the preschool area for you to take home and use in your family devotions. The calendar begins on Ash Wednesday and leads up to Easter Sunday. Each calendar has a door with a theme to focus on and a suggested scripture reading. Please take these and share them with your preschoolers and children and use them as you come together as a family to prepare for Easter.

There are children activity books for Easter that you are welcome to have as well.

A Preschool Family Activity During Lent...Create an Easter Tree

To Make the Tree

Find a large branch and plant it in a pot, OR draw and color a bare tree on a piece of poster paper or construction paper and mount it in a place where everyone can see it (a refrigerator or a place on the cabinet or wall).

During the Season You Will Need:

- Flower, leaf, and butterfly patterns (go ahead and cut them out and place them in a basket or box, so they are easily accessible to your child.)
- If you use a drawing you will need tape or glue dots to stick the patterns on the tree. If you use a branch, hole punch the patterns and tie ribbon or yarn through them to hang on the tree.

Each day, as you do a family devotion, you will place a pattern on the tree. You can use the leaves for prayer of thanksgiving (write what you are thankful for and place on the tree), flowers can be used for when you pray for someone (write their name on the flower), butterflies can be used when someone in the family encourages another or helps another. Use different colors to represent different reasons for adding to the tree.

The beginning of Lent, shows a tree with bare branches, just like outside. During Lent, you will add leaves, flowers, and butterflies to it everyday. When Easter arrives, look at how full of life your tree is.
