Dr. Jeff Roberts, Senior Pastor • jroberts@tbcraleigh.com • Twitter: @Jeff__Roberts

This past week, two of our mission partners, the Southern Baptist Convention and the Cooperative Baptist Fellowship, both met in Dallas Texas. The meetings were both promising and had their challenges. Although I do not regularly attend the SBC meeting, I do monitor it each year and seek to remain informed. At the SBC there were serious conversations regarding the role of women in SBC churches. This conversation was created as the result of several scandals concerning the treatment of women by some of the SBC's leaders this past year. The 2000 Baptist Faith and Message restricts the role of women in leadership. At this year's SBC Convention, there was a grass roots movement to begin to include women in leadership and to take a serious look at how women were being treated, in the churches and in the SBC. Nothing has officially changed in policy or practice, but the discussion, from my perspective, was welcomed.

At Trinity, we believe that God calls servants both male and female. We believe strongly in local church autonomy that allows each local church to choose who they will ordain and place in leadership. In most SBC congregations, women are not allowed to preach, teach men or have a significant leadership position. This, of course, is in direct conflict with Trinity's stated values. However, Trinity also has the value of cooperation. Because we value both local church autonomy and cooperation, we continue to cooperate with the SBC in sending missionaries. We continue to find partnerships with SBC missionaries and provide the opportunity for our church members to give and support these mission endeavors. Whether the SBC will ever again fully embrace and welcome congregations like Trinity is yet to be seen. However, just the discussion of inclusion of women in leadership is promising.

The CBF Assembly also met in Dallas and this is the meeting I attended. Over my ministry I have found my home primarily in CBF life. This is due, not only to my own convictions but also, with the exception of my first congregation which I served prior to CBF's formation, all of the congregations where I have served; they have had CBF as their primary mission partner. At this year's Assembly I was reminded of all that we are doing around the world. Mission reports from Uganda, South Africa, Macedonia and even right here in our Triangle region reminded me of what God can do when we cooperate in missions.

However, CBF is not without its challenges. The CBF Governing Board presented the Illumination Project report to the Assembly this year. The Illumination Project was a two-year process that attempted to develop a process by which CBF churches could have conversation on divisive issues. In essence, the Illumination Project became a study of CBF churches on the subject of human sexuality. The CBF has always had churches that are across the spectrum on many issues, including how to minister to people who are homosexual in our communities and churches. The Illumination Project was an attempt to clarify what CBF churches practiced, in regard to this subject, and a way forward in cooperation. It was discovered that over 85% of all CBF churches currently practice traditional marriage and that all of our mission partners around the world affirm traditional marriage. It was also noted that CBF had cooperating congregations who had formally chosen to be "welcoming and affirming" congregations in regards to LGBTQ individuals. In light of these findings, there were two recommendations. The CBF would adopt a hiring policy without exclusionary language in regards to sexuality and that an implantation procedure would be enacted which guides the hiring of personnel. Under this implantation plan, only individuals who practice celibacy in singleness or traditional marriage between a man and woman would be considered for missionary appointments or leadership positions at the CBF office. From my perspective, I believe this is the most honest expression of who we are as a CBF family. We recognize that all members of our churches may have various gifts to offer CBF's mission. Yet at the same time, the implementation plan is a reflection of the practice of the vast majority of our congregations and our mission partners.

I have agreed, with our Pastoral Advisory Council's blessing, to serve on the Governing Board of the CBF. This is a three-year commitment and comes at a crucial time for CBF. After 18 years as your Pastor, I hope you know my convictions and heart. I have one agenda and that is to share Christ in word and deed. I recognize the diversity of Baptists and believe it is our diversity that makes us strong and enables us to "be all things to all people." I have a deep conviction that cooperation for the Kingdom of God is greater than any one divisive issue that is not essential to salvation. I covet your prayers as I offer my gifts to our greater Baptist family.

As you can see, our Baptist family is diverse and imperfect. In other words, our Baptist family is just like us. It is my conviction that we must value cooperation for the sake of the Great Commission. I am always reminded of the words of our Church Covenant in these conversations:

We covenant... to regard all people who worship Christ as Savior and Lord as the household of faith, the Body of Christ. As we engage to teach and nurture our Baptist heritage, we shall seek also a unity of spirit and action with all Christians. May it be so.

Just for your information, in our most recent years the mission-giving breakdown with our three plans was as follows:

Baptist State Convention of N.C./SBC 14%

CBF of NC/CBF-51%

CBF/Baptist State Convention of N.C. 34%

(This hybrid plan contains 20% for CBF and no gifts to SBC)

Other-designated giving is approximately 2%. This includes those who choose to have all their gifts remain at Trinity or those who may designate to one or all of these organizations.

If you are not currently choosing a mission giving plan, then your mission gifts are being distributed at these percentages. If you would like to choose a plan, please contact our Financial Administrator, Jan Brown, or indicate the plan by checking the appropriate box on your offering envelope. I am also always open to a conversation about our mission giving plans.

Music Ministry

Rev. Steve Byers, slbyers@tbcraleigh.com

Special thanks to Jessica Isaacs for leading our worship services this past Sunday morning, as well as to the VBS children and all of their musical offerings in worship. Under the direction of Misty Deyo and Sally Melvin, the children learned wonderful songs about Jesus and how important it is to know Him and serve Him. Thank you to all of our church musicians for carrying on the musical additions to our worship while I'm away.

FirstLight will be taking a summer break from worship during the month of July. We are so appreciative for their commitment all year long, and we hope this will be a restorative time for them to be with family and to worship together. Our worship services will continue to have music by soloists and instrumentalists each week.

Men's Choir Meets Each Sunday at 5 pm

Nathan Snell, the director of the Men's Choir, has begun rehearsals and you are invited to come be a part of this great group of singing men. Each Sunday at 5 pm, the choir will rehearse in B-236, 1st floor-B Building (Note the change of room from earlier advertisement).
Come join the fun!

Sunday, August 26

Mark your calendars! August 26 is an important date in our church's summer musical celebration. The Trinity Laymen and various musical groups at TBC will be in concert with Miss Emily Roberts, niece of Dr. Roberts, who formerly performed on "The Voice" and is now a country music artist in Nashville! Beginning at 6 pm, we will hear music from these groups and from a "Hallelujah Choir" that you can be a part of, too. For more information about participating, give me a call or speak to one of the Laymen for answers to questions you may have. It will be a wonderful night of music!
