

TRINITY BAPTIST CHURCH

TRINITY TIMES

Belong. Become. Be.

Our Personnel Committee has begun the process of searching for our next Associate Pastor for Missions and Senior Adults. Following Rev. Tatum's resignation, the Personnel Committee spent time in assessing the needs of the church, speaking with some of our current ministerial staff and listening to our Missions Steering Committee and Senior Adult Ministry Committee. The conclusion of the Personnel Committee was to proceed with a search for a new minister to fill this position. The Personnel Committee has formed a search team that consists of the following church members:

Mission Steering Committee:

Boyd Dimmock and Joey Shealy

Senior Adult Ministry Committee:

Cecil Settle and Tricia McCoy

Personnel Committee:

Ronald Sneed and Kay Bailey

Kay Bailey has agreed to chair our search team and will be leading us in this process. The first step has been to approve a job description and begin posting the position. The next steps will be receiving resumes and names and then going through the interview process. Ultimately, the Personnel Committee, upon recommendation from this team, will bring to the church a candidate for approval. This process will follow our By-Law process for calling of new ministers.

As we enter this process, I would encourage you to pray for this team as they search for our candidate. In addition, if you have someone you would like to recommend or guide someone to apply you can find the job description and process on our website at tbcraleigh.com. Join me as we pray that God will lead the right person for this important role in our congregation.

TBC LIBRARY NEWS

HEARTS OF MONTANA

Ingrid Chastain readily agreed to accompany her father to deliver vaccines to a mining town in the Montana Territory. She never could have anticipated a terrible accident would leave her alone and badly injured in the wilderness. When rescue comes in the form of a mysterious mountain man who tends her injuries, she's hesitant to put her trust in this quiet man who seems to have his own wounds. Micah Bradley left his work as a doctor after unintentionally bringing home the smallpox disease that killed his wife and daughter. But his self-imposed solitude in the wilds of Montana is broken when he finds Ingrid in desperate need of medical attention, and he's forced to face his regret and call on his doctoring skills once again. Micah can't help but admire Ingrid's tenacious determination despite the severity of her injuries, until he learns the crate she brought contains smallpox vaccines to help quell a nearby outbreak. With Ingrid dead set on trekking through the mountains to deliver the medicine--with or without his help--he has no choice but to accompany her. As they set off through the treacherous, snow-covered Rocky Mountains against all odds, the journey ahead will change their lives more than they could have known.

A Note from Family Promise

Family Promise of the Triangle has gone through a lot of changes since the pandemic, leaving many of our supporters and faith community partners asking if we've been able to serve as many families as we used to under our old model. We're happy to report that in 2022, Family Promise served a record-breaking 119 families! Last year, we had to close our Emergency Shelter units for two months for renovations. While we were happy to see these old apartments get much-needed repairs, we were concerned that it would have a negative impact on the amount of families we would be able to serve in 2023. However, we surpassed our expectations and set a new record by serving 127 families!

In the coming weeks, we will be sending our supporters our annual report that will go into more detail about our impact in 2023. In the meantime, we wanted to thank you for your support for Family Promise of the Triangle. Without your donations, participation in our meal rotation, and regular volunteering, our families wouldn't have been able to thrive the way they have in the last year.

If you have any questions or would like to schedule a presentation for your congregation or any other group, please email Jeff, our Development and Communications Director at jeff.babajtis@familypromisetriangle.org.

Thanks again,
The Family Promise of the Triangle Team

“All churches grow old, but strategic churches are growing young.” - Growing Young: 6 Essential Strategies to Help Young People Discover and Love Your Church

Based on Fuller Youth Institute’s College Transition Project that led to Sticky Faith resources, we know that 1 in 2 youth group graduates drift from God and the church within the first 12-18 months of graduation. On top of that, 18-29 year olds make up 17% of the US population, but only make up 10% of the church-going population. This decline has a deeply-felt ripple effect across churches in the United States. For me, these are not just sobering statistics; they are the names and faces of previous students who no longer participate in a faith community and rarely engage their faith.

There’s so much bad news about churches today. But in the midst of this discouraging landscape, there are great churches, like ours, that are bright spots in the midst of the all-too-often gloomy narratives and research about churches. There are churches (of all sizes and types) that are engaging young people ages 15-29, and they are growing—spiritually, emotionally, missionally, and sometimes also numerically. I believe we are one of the bright spots but we can always improve.

FYI’s research revealed six core commitments that characterized churches that were growing young. At the center of every single church we studied was a Jesus-centered community—grounded in the life, death, resurrection, and teachings of Jesus Christ. But surrounding these core commitments is an understanding of the church’s context. Each church lived out these core commitments in different ways that reflected their unique cultures and communities.

- Unlock keychain leadership: Instead of centralizing authority, empower others—especially young people.
- Empathize with today’s young people: Instead of judging or criticizing, step into the shoes of this generation.
- Take Jesus’ message seriously: Instead of asserting formulaic gospel claims, welcome young people into a Jesus-centered way of life.
- Fuel a warm community: Instead of focusing on cool worship or programs, aim for warm and welcoming peer and intergenerational friendships.
- Prioritize young people (and families) everywhere: Instead of giving lip service to how much young people matter, look for creative ways to tangibly support, resource, and involve them in all facets of your congregation.
- Be the best neighbors: Instead of condemning the world outside your walls, enable young people to engage well locally and globally with their neighbors.

Over the next several months, I will share more about each of the core commitments and how we can see things from a slightly different perspective. Keep loving one another across generations!

We thank all of our leaders in Preschool Choir, Music Makers Choir, and Young Musicians Choir as well as in Music for 3's for leading, caring, teaching, and directing our young singers this year. And special thanks to parents for bringing your children each week to engage in music activity and song since September of last year. Without your students each week, these hallways would be terribly quiet! Remember to check your calendars for starting dates of our Wednesday night children's activities for the Fall. We hope you will make music a big part of your family time and commitment as we serve Christ together at Trinity.

We are hosting a wonderful opportunity for music in the North Hills area of Raleigh. The Northeast Piedmont Chorale will present their Spring Concert at Trinity on May 4, and we hope you can come and share in the music they present. Mark your calendars!
